

Alex Lutsayev

Analyst

“I am convinced that true growth comes from continuous education and self-improvement. Embrace the journey of learning and seize every opportunity to expand your knowledge and skills.”

Alex Lutsayev serves as a Financial Analyst on the Persium team. He manages trading operations and conducts securities analysis to optimize investment decisions. Alex also assists with account management, ensuring a seamless onboarding experience for clients, and collaborates closely with Relationship Managers to provide financial insights and strategic guidance. Additionally, Alex assists the Persium Investment Committee with research.

Alex’s financial career began over 15 years ago at JPMorgan Chase & Co. in Delaware. He further developed his skills as a proprietary trader and portfolio manager for family offices based in Europe and gained valuable expertise in financial product development through his involvement with fintech startups.

Alex holds a bachelor’s degree in World History from Belarussian State University and a master’s degree in Finance & Economics from West Texas A&M University. He completed Level II of the CFA® Program in 2022.

Originally from Minsk, Belarus, Alex brings a unique international perspective to the team. Before settling in Woodstock, Georgia, he and his family resided in Kyiv, Ukraine.